Adds new interviews with: Paul Thompson, Jean-Louis Roux, William Needles, Desmond Heeley, Michael Whitfield and Susan Benson

Toronto – Students and theatre enthusiasts can now visit the museum’s online home, www.TheatreMuseumCanada.ca , to enjoy interviews conducted by R.H. Thomson with some of the creative icons who played key roles in establishing Canada’s rich performing arts heritage.

“The wealth of our theatrical past rests in these artists who contributed so much to the culture of this country” says R.H. Thomson, adding ““It has been a gift to have these wonderful conversations with the likes of Bill Hutt, Douglas Campbell, Martha, Jean-Louis, Desmond -and now anyone interested can also pull up a chair and listen in”.

Already online are interviews with:
Martha Henry, Douglas Campbell, William Hutt and Mavor Moore.

Theatre Museum Canada plans to continue adding new interviews in 2009.

Thanks so much to these wonderful people for volunteering their time to be a part of this important project.
